The Nitish-led NDA government is expected to take shape mid-week, marking another significant chapter in Bihar's political landscape.

PATNA

Nitish Kumar is likely to be sworn in as the Chief Minister of Bihar for the 10th time on November 19 or 20, depending on Prime Minister Narendra Modi's availability to attend the ceremony. Top NDA sources confirmed that the swearing-in will be a grand event, attended by the PM, Home Minister Amit Shah, several Union Ministers and BJP Chief Ministers.

Unlike previous oath-taking ceremonies, this one is expected to be held at Patna's historic Gandhi Maidan instead of Raj Bhavan, with discussions between JD (U) and BJP leaders in New Delhi finalising arrangements. Senior JD (U) leaders Sanjay Jha and Lallan Singh met Amit Shah to deliberate on power-sharing, while Nitish has been in talks with NDA allies in Patna to finalise the Cabinet.

Sources in the Chief Minister's Office said Nitish has convened a Cabinet meeting today to recommend dissolution of the 17th Bihar Legislative Assembly. He will then submit his resignation to Governor Arif Mohammad Khan before the new government is sworn in. With the Election Commission submitting the poll-related documents, the Model Code of Conduct ended on Sunday, clearing the way for constituting the 18th Assembly. Current House's term ends on November 22.

Dy CM DK Shivakumar rejects rumours, pledges party commitment

BENGALURU

Deputy Chief Minister and Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) President DK Shivakumar on Sunday firmly rejected rumours that he might resign from the party post, calling himself a loyal soldier of the Congress.

Speaking to reporters in Bengaluru, Shivakumar said, "I have worked day in and day out to build the party, and I will continue to do so. My mental, physical, and political health is fine. I have no intention of blackmailing the party or stepping down from the KPCC presidency."

He added that his immediate focus is on strengthening the party across Karnataka. "We have to lay the foundation stones for 100 new Congress offices in the state. I am coordinating with leaders to finalize dates for the foundation ceremonies. I am also preparing to release my book on Gandhi Bharat and planning Congress's foundation day celebrations," he said.

Shivakumar stated Cabinet reshuffle decisions rest with the Chief Minister and plans to meet Mallikarjun Kharge to finalize foundation dates before December 1, hoping Rahul Gandhi joins.

Shivakumar emphasized that all these efforts require his active leadership. "Who will do all this if I resign? There is no need for me to step down. I will continue to work for the party as long as it wants me to," he said.

When asked about discussions on the Cabinet reshuffle, Shivakumar said those matters are the Chief Minister's responsibility.

"I will meet AICC President Mallikarjun Kharge to finalize the foundation dates. I hope both Mallikarjun Kharge and Rahul Gandhi will lay the foundation stones before December 1, as the Parliament session starts," he added.

Shivakumar also revealed that he is personally contributing Rs 2.3 crore to acquire sanction plans for the new Congress offices.

He stressed that Cabinet expansion and leadership matters are controlled by the party high command.

NIA arrests key aide linked to blast

NEW DELHI

The Red Fort blast case has moved into a crucial stage as the National Investigation Agency (NIA) arrested Amir Rashid Ali, a resident of Samboora in Pampore. He was taken into custody in Delhi for helping arrange the car used in the deadly blast near Red Fort Metro Station on November 10. The attack killed 10 people and injured 32. Investigators say the car was registered in Amir's name, and forensic reports confirm that the man driving the explosive-filled vehicle was Dr. Umar Un Nabi, a young medical professional from Pulwama.

Officials revealed that Umar and Amir had been in touch for months, quietly planning the attack. The case has widened into a larger probe involving highly educated individuals. Agencies say a close group of doctors and academics had slowly adopted extreme ideas over the last few years. Their activities included secret meetings in south Kashmir and a trip to Turkey in 2021. Investigators have already recovered more than 360 kg of chemicals, including ammonium nitrate and sulphur, from makeshift stores around a Faridabad university.

The case first began with police in Srinagar investigating extremist posters in October. CCTV footage led to arrests that helped uncover links to the Delhi blast.

Close Call: Farmer escapes as tiger targets cow in Bennegere

A farmer in Bennegere village had a narrow escape when a tiger attacked him, but his cow was not as fortunate. The incident occurred near Mullur, where the big cat first attempted to attack farmer Rajashekhar before turning its attention to a cow grazing nearby.

The cow, owned by farmer Jayappa, was killed in the attack. It was a high-value HF breed, estimated to be worth around ₹1 lakh. Jayappa narrowly avoided being harmed during the frightening encounter. Forest officials

Students oppose 15% NRI quota in govt medical colleges

Dr. Kariganur criticized the NRI quota, warning rising privatization harms medical education and urging its immediate withdrawal to protect public institutions

BENGALURU

Students and medical professionals gathered in Bengaluru on Sunday to demand the removal of the 15 percent NRI quota in government medical colleges. The state-level convention, held at Gandhi Bhavan, was organized by the AIDSO, which strongly opposed the government's move, saying it would commercialize public medical education.

Former president of the Karnataka branch of the Indian Medical Association, Dr. Madhusudan Kariganur, questioned the government's decision, asking whether the state was "so bankrupt that it cannot run its own medical colleges." He said that medical education once focused on service, but increasing privatization has turned the doctor-patient relationship into a form of business. He said the NRI quota was another step toward privatizing public institutions and demanded that it be withdrawn immediately.

AIDSO All India Vice President Mridul Sarkar recalled that students in West Bengal had successfully protested a similar policy earlier. He said that when the quota was first implemented in Karnataka in 2019, the student movement was stopped, but the policy has now returned. He urged students to unite again and oppose the move.

Sarkar added that the NEP-2020 and the National Medical Commission policies introduced by the central government promote commercialization in medical education. He said fixing ₹25 lakh for each medical seat under the NRI quota was unfair and would push quality education further out of reach for common students.

Psychiatrist Dr. Shashidhar also addressed the gathering. The event was presided over by AIDSSO State Treasurer Subhash B.J. State Secretary Ajay Kamat, Vice Presidents Abhayadiwakar and Chandrakala, and other office bearers were present.

Catholic leaders defend freedom in language choice

CH NEWS

Kannada is the state's official language, yet Karnataka hosts many linguistic groups. Castellino affirmed their right to preserve mother tongues while honoring Kannada, a freedom supported by the Constitution.

A recent meeting between members of the Karnataka Rakshana Vedike and Archbishop Dr. Peter Machado has sparked strong reactions from several Catholic community leaders. The group had reportedly asked the Archbishop to ensure that church prayers and services be offered only in Kannada. This request has led to concerns that such a rule may be forced on churches in the future.

In a firm statement, Roy Castellino, President of the Catholic Think Tank Committee and Public Relations Officer of the Mangalore Catholic Diocese, said that while the community respects Kannada, outsiders cannot decide the language used in their religious services. He explained that choosing the language of worship is a right of the community, not something to be dictated by others.

Kannada is the state's official and respected language, and there is no disagreement on that point. Still, Karnataka is home to lakhs of people whose mother tongues include Konkani, Tulu, Kodava, Beary, Lambani, and other regional languages. Castellino said every group has the right to preserve and develop its mother tongue while also honoring Kannada. The Constitution supports this freedom, and governments have long offered assistance to different linguistic communities.

He also noted that religion has helped many languages survive. For example, Konkani has grown in Karnataka largely due to the Christian community's efforts. The state government has also supported the language by establishing the Konkani Academy.

HEALTHY CITY KEEPERS

City launches health check-ups for sanitation workers

BENGALURU

The Bengaluru Central City Corporation has launched a special health check-up programme for Pourakarmikas, Auto Tipper Drivers, and Loaders who work every day to keep the city clean and safe. The corporation said the aim of this initiative is to ensure that the workers who protect the city's hygiene also receive proper care for their own health.

Additional Commissioner (Development) Daljit Kumar said that protecting the health of sanitation workers is the corporation's top responsibility. He explained that these workers perform difficult tasks from early morning until late in the day, often facing dust, waste, and changing weather conditions. Because of this, regular and detailed health check-ups are essential.

To make the process easy and accessible, the corporation has arranged health screenings at 73 locations across the city. This includes 45 Namma Clinics and 28 Urban Primary Health Centres, where medical teams began examinations early this morning. The programme covers general health tests, basic screenings, and guidance for further treatment if required.

Kumar stressed that every sanitation worker—from street sweepers to auto tipper drivers and loaders—will receive complete medical attention. He added that caring for these frontline workers not only helps their wellbeing but also strengthens the city's overall sanitation system.

The corporation stated that similar health initiatives will continue regularly so that workers remain healthy and supported while carrying out their important duties. The programme reflects Bengaluru's commitment to the people who help keep the city clean, beautiful, and livable for everyone.

Bengaluru begins action against garbage burning

BENGALURU

Bengaluru Solid Waste Management Limited (BSWML) has decided to take strong legal action against people who burn garbage in the city. Officials said this move follows the directions of Deputy Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister D.K. Shivakumar, who asked authorities to strictly enforce waste rules.

BSWML Chief Executive Officer Karee Gowda said engineers, marshals, and Junior Health Inspectors will now have the power to file criminal cases. He explained that burning garbage causes serious air pollution and that all waste, once segregated, is supposed to go to processing plants where it is safely handled or used to generate power.

To begin the crackdown, BSWML will file a few cases in the coming days. Action will be taken under the Solid Waste Management Rules, 2016, the Environment Protection Act, 1986, and Section 19(5) of the Air Pollution Act, 1981.

Over 1,700 daily helmet violations in city

BENGALURU

Bengaluru is facing a growing road safety problem as more than 1,700 helmet-related violations are recorded every single day. Traffic police data shows that many riders continue to ignore basic safety rules, either by not wearing helmets at all or by using low-quality, non-ISI helmets bought cheaply from roadside stalls or online stores.

According to the Violation Challan Analytics dashboard, 19% of all traffic fines are issued to riders without helmets, while 9% involve pillion riders. Until the end of October, police booked over 15.8 lakh cases against riders and more than 8.7 lakh cases against pillion riders. On average, 1,191 riders and 543 pillion riders are fined every day for helmet-related offences. Officers say these numbers remain high despite multiple awareness campaigns.

Traffic officials warn that substandard helmets, often costing only ₹400–₹600, offer almost no real protection because they can crack easily during an accident.

High command decides cabinet reshuffle: DK Suresh

Suresh denied any leadership change talks, stating only the party high command can decide on reshuffles

BENGALURU

Former MP and Bamul President DK Suresh on Sunday said that decisions regarding Cabinet reshuffles and power sharing are the prerogative of the party High Command, and he would wait and watch developments. Speaking to reporters at his Sadashivanagar residence, he stated, "I have seen the reports in the media. This is the prerogative of the High Command and the CM, let's wait and watch," responding to questions about the High Command reportedly approving a Cabinet reshuffle.

On whether a leadership change would follow a reshuffle, Suresh said he had no information, emphasizing that such matters are decided by the High Command. Asked if he would join his brother, DK Shivakumar, in Delhi, he said, "Visiting Delhi is not new for me. DK Shivakumar has gone to Delhi on work and I am going for my work." He added he would meet the High Command if the opportunity arose.

Suresh also addressed speculation about making his brother the Chief Minister. "High Command is final on this matter. We have to see what decision they take," he said, adding that many leaders have put forward claims and it is up to the High Command to consider all of them. Regarding Home Minister Parameshwar's statement that leadership would remain unchanged post-reshuffle, Suresh said the CM is following High Command directions, and Shivakumar will provide inputs if requested.

On the KPCC President position, he clarified, "DK Shivakumar will abide by any decision taken by the High Command. He is not clinging to the post and will work for the party as long as the party gives him the opportunity."

Woman harassed by man posing as dog lover

BENGALURU

A man has been booked by Bengaluru Police for misbehaving with a woman who was walking her dog in Upkar Layout, Jnanabharati. The incident took place on November 6, when the woman allowed the man to pet her dog after he politely asked. Police said on Sunday that the accused pretended to be a dog lover but then suddenly touched the woman in an inappropriate way.

According to her complaint, the woman resisted, and when the man tried again, she slapped him. In the confusion, her mobile phone fell, and before people nearby could react, the accused picked up the phone and ran away. The woman later filed a complaint, and police are now searching for the man using CCTV footage collected from the area.

This case adds to Bengaluru's concerning month, following November 9 when a man, allegedly under marijuana influence, attempted to sexually assault a differently-abled woman in MR Nagar.

This case comes during a month when Bengaluru has already seen two other troubling incidents involving crimes against women. On November 9, a man allegedly tried to sexually assault a differently-abled woman in MR Nagar. Police said the accused was under the influence of marijuana during the act.

In another case, a Rapido driver was arrested on November 6 for harassing a female passenger. The incident came to light after the woman shared her experience on social media. Bengaluru Police contacted her through their monitoring unit, registered a case, and identified the driver as 28-year-old Lokesh from Muniyappa Layout, Ullal.

Police have urged the public to report such incidents without delay so that prompt action can be taken. Many residents in the city continue to ask for stronger safety measures and better monitoring, especially in areas where women walk alone.

Akhilesh questions BJP's victory in Bihar elections

BENGALURU

Former Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister and Samajwadi Party president Akhilesh Yadav questioned how the BJP-led NDA's strike rate in the Bihar elections increased so sharply. He spoke to the media after paying a courtesy visit to Karnataka Home Minister Dr. G. Parameshwara at his Sadashivanagar residence.

Akhilesh said he personally campaigned in Bihar and witnessed strong public support for Tejashwi Yadav and the Grand Alliance. He believed people wanted change and were concerned about unemployment, rising prices, and Bihar's development. However, he said the NDA securing around 200 seats raised questions about how such a large victory was possible.

He also claimed that during Uttar Pradesh by-elections, the BJP "misused police machinery" to influence votes. Speaking about Bihar, he alleged that women received ₹10,000 in their bank accounts and some households received ₹30,000, which may have impacted voting decisions. He said that if elections are won by giving money, then parties must rethink their strategies. According to him, helping the poor is good, but temporary payments cannot solve long-term challenges. He added that his party may announce more financial support in future elections because the poor deserve better assistance.

Akhilesh stressed that alliances must stay united during difficult times. He said the Congress is their ally and should not be abandoned when facing challenges. Talks of reforming alliances, he said, should happen only at the right time.

BESCOM urged residents and institutions in affected areas to prepare, charge devices, store water, and ensure backup systems ready

BESCOM schedules temporary power shut down for maintenance

BENGALURU

Residents across several parts of Bengaluru will face a six-hour planned power cut on November 18 as BESCOM carries out urgent maintenance work. According to an official statement, electricity will be switched off from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. while engineers conduct essential repairs at the 66/11 KV Sobha City substation. The temporary outage is part of ongoing efforts to strengthen the city's power network and prevent future disruptions.

Several neighbourhoods will be directly affected by the shutdown. These include Sobha City, Chokkanahalli, Domino's Pizza Paradise area, Noor Nagar, Ex-Servicemen Layout, Police Quarters, R.K. Hegde Nagar, Shabari Nagar, New Shanti Nagar, Kempegowda Layout, Nagenahalli Village, Regency Park, Esther Harmonic Layout, Balaji Layout, Nagenahalli Gym Slum, Bird Bench, and Royal Wood. BESCOM has urged residents in these places to plan their day carefully.

Nearby regions will also experience disruptions during the maintenance window. Arkavathi Layout, Thanisandra, extended areas of R.K. Hegde Nagar, Bellahalli Village, Thirumenahalli Village, Mittaganahalli, and Kogilu Village are among those expected to be impacted. Officials said that power supply in these pockets may fluctuate before stabilising once repair work is complete.

BESCOM advised people living in the affected zones to prepare in advance by charging essential devices, storing water if needed, and completing household tasks ahead of time. The company added that hospitals, commercial centres, and offices in the listed areas should keep backup systems ready to avoid inconvenience.

The agency stressed that the repair work is necessary to improve the long-term reliability of Bengaluru's electricity supply. Once upgrades at the Sobha City substation are finished, residents can expect a more stable and efficient service. While the outage may cause some discomfort, BESCOM said the effort will help reduce unexpected power cuts in the future.

For now, citizens are encouraged to stay informed and follow safety guidelines during the scheduled maintenance, ensuring a smooth and trouble-free repair period. BESCOM assures residents improved stability after the planned upgrade work.

Panthur road reopens to reduce major traffic congestion

BENGALURU

Panthur Main Road in Bengaluru will reopen for public use on November 17 (today), after the completion of white-topping work. The HAL Airport Traffic Police shared the update on platform X, saying the road is now ready for smooth movement. This reopening is expected to bring relief to thousands of commuters who travel daily through the ORR, HAL Airport Road, and Marathahalli stretch.

Along with this, the Bengaluru Traffic Police have proposed a pay-and-park system across major tech parks and private offices on the Outer Ring Road. They believe that charging for parking will reduce the use of personal vehicles, especially single-occupant cars. Officials estimate that at least 10% of IT employees may shift to public transport, which could reduce overall congestion by nearly 30%.

To support this plan, the government is working closely with BMTC and other transport agencies to design shared transport options, including bus-pooling services for IT workers. These buses will follow routes based on common travel patterns, encouraging more people to leave their cars at home. A high-level meeting on the issue included senior government officers, police officials, and industry leaders such as Biocon Chairperson Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw and Yulu Co-founder RK Misra.

Traffic officers say Bengaluru sees almost 3,000 new vehicles added every day, increasing pressure on busy tech-corridor roads.

Birsa Munda was a great leader of the tribal communities: MLC

Birsa Munda, tribal leader, emerged as a political activist for his community

MYSURU

Birsa Munda was a great leader of the tribal communities and he emerged both as a political leader and as a spiritual guide, said Legislative Council Member C.N. Manjegowda.

He spoke after inaugurating the programme by lighting the lamp and offering floral tributes to the portrait of Birsa Munda, during the celebration of the 150th Birth Anniversary of Bhagwan Shri Birsa Munda and the Prime Minister's Janjatiya Adivasi Nyaya Maha Gaurav Divas Abhiyan, organised jointly by the Karnataka State Tribal Research Institute, Mysuru District Administration, Zilla Panchayat and the Department of Scheduled Tribes Welfare at the Karnataka State Tribal Research Institute in Mysuru.

He said that the government has taken up the construction of 33 multipurpose buildings for the development of tribal communities, of which four buildings have been completed. The programme was inaugurated with the dedication of these newly completed buildings.

MLC said that Birsa Munda fought against the British as early as 1898 and stood up for the rights of the tribal communities even in those times. His contribution to the tribal population is immense. The present generation must study more about him, and it is for this reason that both the Central and State Governments are celebrating his birth anniversary today.

Manjegowda said that the government has implemented many schemes for the tribal communities, but efforts should be made to ensure these schemes reach them. Even today, they face several challenges. Both the Central and State Governments must introduce more programmes to address these issues. Officials must create awareness among tribal people about the schemes available to them. All tribal communities should make full use of the benefits provided by the government, he said.

Aerospace engineering students arrested for burglaries

CHIKKABALLAPUR

Two aerospace engineering students were arrested in Chikkaballapur for burglarising homes near their neighbourhood to fund leisure activities and college entertainment

Chikkaballapur police have arrested two aerospace engineering students who allegedly turned to house burglary to finance their leisure activities on campus. The accused, Chetan and Abhishek, are students at a reputed engineering college in Bengaluru and had reportedly become close friends after enrolling in the same programme.

According to police, Chetan is a resident of Chamarajpet in Chikkaballapura city, while Abhishek hails from Mandya district. Both students were keen on indulging in entertainment and outings with their friends, but lacked the money to support their plans. In search of quick cash, they devised a plan to steal from houses located near Chetan's residence. Their first target was the home of Vinuta, a schoolteacher in Chamarajpet. Taking advantage of the family's absence, the duo broke into the house and stole gold jewellery worth approximately ₹6.25 lakh. Emboldened by their success, they soon attempted another burglary in the same locality. This time, they entered the residence of a woman named Shanthamma and escaped with ₹85,000 in cash along with additional gold ornaments.

Police said the students used the stolen money for outings, entertainment, and personal expenses, believing they would not be suspected due to their academic background. However, following complaints from the victims and subsequent investigation, Chikkaballapura police identified the suspects and apprehended both of them.

The arrests have shocked locals as well as college authorities, who were unaware of the students' involvement in criminal activities. After interrogation, the two have been remanded to judicial custody. Police have also recovered a substantial portion of the stolen valuables.

Farmers demand cowpea procurement center, adequate compensation

DHARWAD

BJP Navalgund Mandal members staged a protest urging the government to establish a cowpea procurement center and implement fixed prices for cow ghee. They also demanded adequate compensation for damaged crops.

The demonstration took place in front of the Tahsildar's office in the town. Former Minister Shankar Patil Munenakoppa highlighted that continuous rains had severely damaged maize, onions, and other crops, leading to a sharp decline in market prices.

While the central government has fixed a support price of Rs 2,400 per quintal for maize, the current market rate stands at Rs 1,600, leaving farmers in distress.

Munenkoppa called on the state government to start a procurement center to alleviate farmers' difficulties. He further demanded that the central MSP of Rs 2,400 and a state incentive of Rs 600 be combined to ensure a total effective price of Rs 3,000 per quintal. Compensation should also be distributed for all affected crops.

Present at the protest were Mandal President Gangappa Manami, AB Hiremath, Prabhu Ibrahimpur, Jayaprakash Badami, Nagesh Mudigowdra, Shanmukha Gurikara, Manjunath Gani, Siddanna Kitageri, Siddana Gowda Patil, Basavaraja Kattimani, Basavaraj Chakrasali, Mahantesh Kalala, Sharanappa Hakkaraki, Basavaraja Kataraki, and Devaraj Dadibavi.

HK Patil accuses EC of acting like a dictator

HUBBALLI

Minister HK Patil accused the Election Commission of authoritarian behavior, alleging it ignored vote theft concerns and failed to act transparently over the past three years

Minister HK Patil has accused the Election Commission of acting like a dictator, criticizing its functioning in recent years.

Speaking to the media, Patil referred to discussions at Kharge's residence regarding the Bihar election results and said the Election Commission's actions over the past three years have raised serious concerns.

He claimed that despite raising issues about alleged vote theft, the Commission has failed to act appropriately and has ignored instances of misconduct.

The minister's remarks come amid ongoing debates over the Election Commission's powers, decisions, and alleged bias in recent elections, sparking criticism from opposition leaders and political analysts alike. Patil's statement reflects growing dissatisfaction with what he describes as a lack of transparency and fairness in the country's electoral process.

By highlighting these concerns, Patil urged that the Commission must act responsibly, maintain neutrality, and uphold the democratic framework on which elections and public faith in governance depend.

Puri calls shipbuilding partnership a key 'Make in India' opportunity

Minister Hardeep Singh Puri says India's youth and South Korea's technology can drive major shipbuilding and energy cooperation.

NEW DELHI

Union Minister for Petroleum and Natural Gas Hardeep Singh Puri on Sunday underscored the immense potential of strategic collaboration between India and South Korea, particularly in shipbuilding, energy transport, and technological innovation. Speaking during his visit to Seoul, Puri described India's youthful workforce and South Korea's advanced industrial capabilities as a win-win combination that aligns with India's long-term development goals.

During the visit, Puri met young Indian professionals and students pursuing career opportunities in South Korea, praising their enthusiasm and commitment to contributing to India's growth under Prime Minister Narendra Modi's leadership. They spoke passionately about their dreams and fervour to serve India's growth and development, he wrote on X.

Puri also engaged with senior executives of major South Korean companies to explore new avenues of bilateral cooperation, particularly in the shipbuilding sector. He emphasized that Korean firms possess cutting-edge expertise and manufacturing capacity, while India offers high-demand markets, skilled labor, and policy support — making it an ideal partnership model under the 'Make in India' initiative.

Visited the sprawling shipbuilding facility of Hanwha Ocean in Geoje, Puri said, highlighting India's strong economic growth and massive investment potential. He noted that Indian energy public sector units spend USD 5–8 billion annually on freight and currently require at least 59 vessels, creating a substantial opportunity for companies like Hanwha to collaborate and manufacture ships in India.

Puri stressed that the collaboration could position India as a global shipping hub. We will not only recover the costs of our vessels in 5 years, but will also establish India as a global maritime shipping hub, he said.

BJP Chief slams Stalin, says 20,000 jobs slipped to AP

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu BJP leader alleges DMK government's administrative failures drove away major Korean investment and thousands of jobs.

Tamil Nadu BJP president Nainar Nagenthran on Sunday launched a fierce attack on Chief Minister M.K. Stalin, accusing the ruling DMK government of failing to retain critical industrial investments and undermining the state's economic prospects. His comments came after South Korean footwear maker Hwasung reportedly shifted its proposed ₹1,720-crore manufacturing project from Tamil Nadu to Andhra Pradesh.

According to Nagenthran, the loss is not merely financial — it represents nearly 20,000 direct job opportunities for Tamil Nadu's youth. He questioned whether the Chief Minister was even aware that the investment, once announced with much fanfare, had moved elsewhere without resistance.

Calling the development a clear indicator of inefficiency and indifference, the BJP leader said the DMK has failed to provide confidence to investors. Stalin keeps saying he will never allow Tamil Nadu to bow its head. Yet under this ineffective government, young people have now lost 20,000 job opportunities, he said.

Nagenthran compared the state's frequent investment claims to the fable of The Boy Who Cried Wolf, accusing the government of making loud announcements only for investors to quietly choose other states later. This has become a continuous, predictable pattern, he added.

He also criticized Stalin's frequent foreign trips aimed at attracting global investors, alleging that they have yielded no meaningful results. The Chief Minister goes abroad claiming he is bringing investments, only to return empty-handed. Even investments that arrive without effort are allowed to slip away due to administrative apathy, he charged.

Calling the latest development a serious setback for Tamil Nadu's industry, Nagenthran said the DMK government's policies were damaging the state's economic future.

Rabri Devi's brother calls for introspection in RJD after Bihar polls

PATNA

Sadhu Yadav, brother of former Bihar Chief Minister Rabri Devi, on Sunday criticised the alleged treatment meted out to RJD chief Lalu Prasad Yadav's daughter, Rohini Acharya, saying that such behaviour towards a daughter of the family should never have occurred. Rohini Acharya on Sunday levelled serious allegations of humiliation and physical intimidation, claiming she was compelled to leave her crying parents and sisters behind.

Her statements have triggered fresh speculation about deepening discord within the Yadav family, already under pressure after the RJD's poor performance in the Bihar Assembly Election 2025.

Sadhu Yadav said, Rabri Devi is my sister and I too have endured many things, but I have never spoken a single word against my own sister. What is being heard, what people are saying, is wrong. She (Rohini Acharya) is my niece, a daughter of our family and a daughter of Bihar. If anyone has treated her in such a manner, it should never have happened; it is wrong.

He added that while he cannot point fingers at anyone specifically, the situation calls for thoughtful reflection and deliberation.

Subhash Yadav, another brother of Rabri Devi, speaking to IANS, also condemned the incident.

In a major push toward reducing legal pendency and promoting amicable settlements, the High Court of Telangana and the Telangana State Legal Services Authority successfully settled 74,782 cases during a special Lok Adalat held across the state. The initiative, which began on October 27, concluded, significantly easing the burden on courts and offering relief to thousands of citizens.

The Telangana Police identified eligible cases and served notices to concerned parties, ensuring maximum participation. Additional Director General of Police, CID, Charu Sinha, highlighted the magnitude of the achievement, noting that the initiative aimed at resolving compoundable cases through mutual agreement and compounding. Among the settled matters were 14,642 FIR cases, 154 disaster management cases, 23,400 e-petty cases, 31,189 Motor Vehicles Act violations, and 5,397 cybercrime cases.

ADGP Sinha praised the efforts of police units across Telangana, noting that all districts performed commendably in disposing of pending cases. The top five contributors were Hyderabad with 11,226 settled cases, followed by Ramagundam (8,108), Nalgonda (6,410), Khammam (6,090), and Warangal (5,064).

The special Lok Adalat has been widely recognized as a citizen-friendly initiative that saves time, reduces court visits, cuts down legal expenses, and offers peace of mind to both parties involved. Authorities have also worked to create public awareness about the benefits of this platform, encouraging more people to opt for speedy justice.

The ADGP credited the success to effective coordination between the Telangana State Legal Services Authority (TSLSA), District Legal Services Authorities (DSLSAs), judges, magistrates, Commissioners and Superintendents of Police, and the Telangana Cyber Security Bureau (TGCSB). Officials noted that the initiative has significantly reduced the volume of under-investigation and pending trial compoundable cases across the state.

5 friends killed as SUV rams into tractor-trolley

GWALIOR

Five young men, all friends, were killed in a road accident on the Gwalior-Jhansi Highway in Madhya Pradesh on Sunday, officials said here. The horrific collision occurred at around 6.00 a.m. near Malwa College when a speeding Fortuner car smashed into a sand-laden tractor-trolley, leaving no survivors. All were residents of Gwalior.

According to police, the Fortuner (sports utility vehicle) was travelling from Jhansi towards Gwalior when the tragedy occurred. As the vehicle approached Malwa College, a tractor-trolley emerged from a turn onto the highway.

The car, reportedly moving at high speed, lost control, resulting in a catastrophic impact.

DSP Nagendra Singh Sikarwar (Crime) said, The collision was so severe that half of the Fortuner was crushed under the trolley, trapping and killing all five occupants instantly.

The mangled wreckage underscored the intensity of the crash. Even the airbags of the car burst with the impact, he said.

When asked if the vehicle was being driven rashly, the senior police official said, A vehicle like the Fortuner cannot be easily crashed to an unrecognisable degree; it indicates it was being driven at more than 120 km per hour. Even the airbags could not help. Sadly, all the occupants were young and under 25 years of age. Some of them were the sole sons of their fathers.

Police and emergency services rushed to the scene upon receiving calls. With assistance from local villagers, authorities used cutting tools to extricate the bodies from the intertwined wreckage of the car and tractor-trolley.

The operation was gruelling, as the car's frame was almost unrecognisable. The bodies were later sent for post-mortem examination, and an investigation has been initiated to ascertain the precise circumstances of the accident.

Suvendu Adhikari claims TMC MLA running extortion racket

KOLKATA

Leader of Opposition (LoP) in the West Bengal Assembly, Suvendu Adhikari, on Sunday re-leased an audio clip which he claimed proves that Trinamool Congress legislator Jiban Krishna Saha—currently in jail in connection with the multi-crore cash-for-school-job case—was continu-ing to collect money from behind bars by promising school jobs. Addressing the media in Nandi-gram, Adhikari played the clip on his mobile phone and alleged that the voice demanding money was that of Saha, who has been in judicial custody since his arrest earlier this year by the

According to Adhikari, the conversation in the audio occurred recently while Saha was still in jail. However, could not independently verify the authenticity of the clip.

In the recording, one person—whom Adhikari identifies as Saha—is heard asking another individual to immedi-ately send ₹50,000. The other voice responds that the money is being sent and that a total of ₹15.50 lakh has already been paid.

Adhikari later posted on X, sharply criticising the Trinamool Congress and calling Saha a "jailbird MLA." He alleged that Saha was running an extortion racket from jail and fast-tracking fake teacher recruitments, accusing the ruling party of turning prisons into "TMC offices." He ques-tioned whether this reflected the party's claims of honesty, arguing that honest citizens were suf-fering while corruption continued unchecked.

IBOMMA PIRACY ARREST

Immadhi Ravi remanded to 14-day judicial custody

HYDERABAD

In a major breakthrough against digital piracy, Hyderabad police have arrested alleged piracy mastermind Immadhi Ravi, who was believed to be operating a large-scale illegal film distribution network from the Caribbean islands. Ravi, notorious for throwing an open challenge to Indian law enforcement, was sent to 14 days of judicial custody after being produced before a magistrate. He has now been lodged at the Chanchalguda Central Prison.

Ravi is accused of running piracy platforms iBomma and Bappam, which were infamous for distributing pirated Telugu, Tamil, Malayalam and other regional films, along with content from major OTT platforms. The racket reportedly caused massive financial losses to filmmakers and production houses across the country.

According to police, Ravi fled India on October 1, shortly after a case was filed against him. He reportedly stayed in Amsterdam on October 3, constantly switching IP addresses and using encrypted networks to evade tracking. However, he returned to Hyderabad recently, convinced that authorities would not be able to locate him.

Acting on mobile signal intelligence, the police tracked him to a residence in Kukatpally, where he was detained late Friday night. During the raid, investigators seized hundreds of hard disks, believed to contain pirated movies and distribution data.

The Cybercrime police have since blocked access to iBomma and Bappam using login credentials obtained during interrogation. A petition will be filed in the Nampally Court on Monday seeking seven days of police custody for further questioning.

Officials revealed that Ravi's network depended on VPNs, encrypted Telegram groups, overseas servers and cryptocurrency payments, making it one of the most sophisticated piracy systems in India. The racket reportedly used online gaming and betting platforms for advertising pirated content in exchange for funding.

Punjab police bust Pak-linked arms and drug network, 5 arrested

Punjab Police arrested five men, seizing pistols and heroin, dismantling a Pakistan-linked weapons and narcotics smuggling network

CHANDIGARH

Punjab Police have successfully dismantled a cross-border arms and drug trafficking network with alleged links to Pakistan, arresting five individuals and recovering a cache of sophisticated weapons and heroin. Director General of Police (DGP) Punjab Gaurav Yadav announced the breakthrough on Sunday, describing it as a significant step toward curbing the inflow of illegal weapons and narcotics into the state.

Those arrested have been identified as Akash Masih and Prince, along with Karanbir Singh alias Karan, Sukhwinder Singh, and Gurbhej Singh alias Bheja. While four of them are from Amritsar (Rural), Gurbhej Singh hails from Tarn Taran. All the accused are residents of villages near the India-Pakistan border and are believed to have been receiving illegal consignments under the instructions of Pakistan-based handlers.

Police recovered six weapons from the accused — including five .30 bore pistols and a 9mm Glock — along with 1.01 kg of heroin. According to DGP Yadav, preliminary investigations indicate that the group was in direct communication with handlers across the border through encrypted social media platforms. Their role involved collecting weapons and drugs before distributing them further within Punjab.

Commissioner of Police (Amritsar) Gurpreet Singh Bhullar shared details of the operation, explaining that the first two arrests were made at a checkpoint near Chheharta. The subsequent arrests followed technical surveillance and interrogation, leading to the recovery of additional weapons and heroin.

Further investigations aim to uncover the full extent of the network, including backward and forward linkages, suppliers, and receivers. Two FIRs have been registered — one under the Arms Act at Chheharta police station and another under the Arms and NDPS Acts at the Cantonment police station.

Police officials said the crackdown reflects intensified efforts to neutralize cross-border criminal networks threatening regional security.

97.5% enumeration forms distributed in SIR Phase II

NEW DELHI

The Election Commission announced rapid progress in voter enumeration, nearing full distribution of electoral forms across participating regions.

The Election Commission of India (ECI) on Sunday released its 3:00 PM Daily Bulletin for November 16, confirming near-complete progress in Phase II of the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls. The revision exercise, being carried out across 12 States and Union Territories, has reported 100 per cent printing of Enumeration Forms (EFs) and over 97.5 per cent distribution so far.

The ongoing SIR Phase II runs from November 4 to December 4, 2025, and involves door-to-door verification of voter details by Booth Level Officers (BLOs) along with Booth Level Agents (BLAs) appointed by recognised political parties. The process aims to update and authenticate voter records ahead of several upcoming elections.

The ECI noted that out of 50.99 crore electors covered under this phase, 50.97 crore EFs—amounting to 99.95 per cent—have been printed. Of these, 49.73 crore forms, or 97.52 per cent, have already been distributed, showcasing effective field mobilisation and administrative coordination.

Several States and Union Territories have demonstrated exemplary performance. Goa and Lakshadweep achieved 100 per cent distribution, while Andaman and Nicobar Islands, Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh, and Uttar Pradesh reported near-complete coverage. Uttar Pradesh alone distributed 15.7 crore forms, reflecting a 97.64 per cent success rate, while Madhya Pradesh recorded 99.45 per cent distribution of 5.74 crore EFs.

However, a few regions lag slightly behind. Kerala reported 93.72 per cent distribution, Tamil Nadu 93.67 per cent, and Puducherry 94.10 per cent, prompting the Commission to call for renewed efforts.

The ECI also urged recognised political parties to deploy additional Booth Level Agents, particularly in densely populated constituencies, to enhance transparency during household verification. The bulletin highlighted the deployment of 5.33 lakh BLOs and 10.41 lakh BLAs as evidence of the Commission's commitment to ensuring accurate and inclusive electoral rolls.

With just under three weeks remaining in the enumeration period, the ECI is expected to intensify efforts in lower-performing areas to achieve comprehensive coverage before the deadline.

TN extends paddy crop insurance deadline to Nov 30

CHENNAI

In a major relief for paddy farmers across Tamil Nadu, the State government on Sunday announced that the deadline for enrolment under the Samba, Thaladi and Pishanam Paddy Crop Insurance Scheme has been extended to November 30.

The decision follows approval from the Union government and comes at a time when continuous rain, a delayed Kuruvai harvest, and the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls have slowed down insurance applications in several districts.

Agriculture and Farmers Welfare Minister M.R.K. Panneerselvam said the extension was crucial to ensure that no farmer was excluded due to administrative or weather-related disruptions.

He noted that samba cultivation is progressing strongly this season, with 26.25 lakh acres already under cultivation across Tamil Nadu.

According to the Minister, 6.27 lakh farmers have so far insured 15 lakh acres, achieving 57 per cent coverage. This marks a significant improvement compared to the corresponding period last year, when only around 10 lakh acres were insured.

Officials attribute the increase to robust field-level awareness, timely release of water for irrigation, and improved accessibility of enrollment centres.

The insurance deadline was originally fixed as November 15 for farmers across 27 districts including Thanjavur.

Former Congress leader Shakeel Ahmad challenges Opposition's Bihar election performance and raises doubts over alleged voter deletions

Ex-Cong leader Shakeel Ahmad questions voter deletion claims

NEW DELHI

Former Congress leader Shakeel Ahmad, who resigned from the party earlier this week, has sharply criticised the Opposition's strategy and performance in the recently concluded Bihar Assembly election. Ahmad questioned both the seat distribution practices and claims surrounding mass voter deletions that allegedly impacted the results.

Ahmad specifically challenged the assertion that 6.5 million voters were removed from the state's electoral rolls. Calling the allegations unsubstantiated, he said there was no visible public reaction that would normally accompany such a large-scale deletion. If such a massive deletion had happened, even a small section of those affected should have protested, he said. At least 65 people, or even 5,000, could have come forward. But nothing of that sort was seen.

He further noted that no major political party, including the Left, RJD, or Congress, mobilised public demonstrations or legal action over the issue. If votes of innocent people were really deleted, political parties should have taken to the streets, he added.

Reflecting on the Bihar results, Ahmad described the performance of the Opposition alliance as unexpected and shocking. Although no longer affiliated with the Congress, he acknowledged that the outcome surprised many within the alliance. Nobody expected such a poor performance from our side, he said.

Giving historical context, Ahmad explained that Bihar's electoral landscape has long been shaped by fixed social and sectional voting patterns dating back to 1995. At that time, even when we were not aligned with Lalu Yadav, 85 per cent of certain sections supported him. Over the years, these segments fragmented, leaving only two sections with our alliance today, he remarked.

Ahmad's comments reflect growing introspection within Opposition ranks following their electoral setback, even as questions linger about strategy, leadership, and ground-level engagement.

OPCC to act against anti-party activities

BHUBANESWAR

Odisha Pradesh Congress Committee (OPCC) President Bhakta Charan Das on Sunday stated that the Congress will introspect to identify the causes of the defeat and will also take action against those involved in anti-party activities during the recently concluded Nuapada bypolls.

Speaking to media persons, Das said that there is a need for introspection in the party to find out the failures in the by-election and the party's members who were involved in anti-party activities during the polls. The OPCC president clarified that stringent action will be taken against all those found engaged in anti-party activities during the polls. He further claimed that the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) spent huge money and engaged several ministers and leaders from Odisha and the neighbouring Chhattisgarh, including the Chief Ministers of both states, to win the Nuapada bypolls.

Despite the massive misuse of power and large-scale distribution of money, the people of Nuapada gave Congress over 40,000 votes, and we express our gratitude to them for this. We are fully satisfied that we have achieved something that we never did in the past, the OPCC president asserted.

Meanwhile, Senior BJP leader and the law minister Prithiviraj Harichandan, while taking a dig at the OPCC president, said, Those who face defeat usually present several alibis to hide their faults and weaknesses. Instead of getting engaged in tall talks, it would be better for both BJD and Congress to accept that they had been rejected by the people. It is pertinent here to mention that BJP candidate Jay Dholakia, who secured a total of 1,23,869 votes, defeated Congress candidate Ghasiram Majhi by a margin of 83,748 votes.

Six arrested for defrauding elderly woman of ₹49 lakh

NEW DELHI

In a major breakthrough against organised cyber-enabled financial crime, the Cyber Cell of the Delhi Crime Branch has busted a multi-layered syndicate involved in the notorious Digital Arrest scam, police officials announced on Sunday. Six individuals, including mule account operators, were arrested for allegedly duping a 71-year-old woman of ₹49 lakh after holding her under digital confinement for nearly 24 hours.

The case came to light following an FIR filed by the elderly victim, who was psychologically coerced into transferring her life savings. The accused posed as law enforcement officials and threatened her with fabricated legal charges, using fear and intimidation to force repeated fund transfers into bank accounts controlled by the syndicate.

According to Delhi Police, the scam relied on a combination of intimidation, impersonation, and technical deception—hallmarks of the Digital Arrest modus operandi. The victim was threatened with legal action and coerced into transferring ₹49 lakh to various bank accounts. Multi-layered bank accounts were used to transfer money and later withdraw it from ATMs, the police statement said.

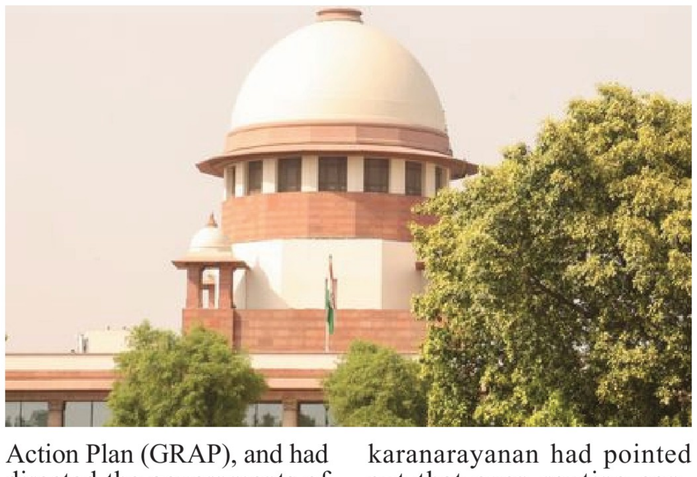
The breakthrough came after multiple complaints were submitted through the National Cyber Crime Reporting Portal. Police launched coordinated operations across Lucknow, specifically targeting Aminabad, Hasanganj, Madey Ganj and Sadar Cantt areas. Using a blend of technical surveillance and field intelligence, the investigation team identified individuals managing mule accounts used to launder and siphon off stolen funds.

The arrested suspects have been identified as Mohd. Ovais, 25, a flex-printing shop worker; Vishal Tiwari, 19, a first-year student employed at a grocery chain; Shakeel Ahmad, 53, a tailor already facing trial in another case; and three others — Mohd. Ahad, Mohd. Atif, and Mohd.

DELHI AIR EMERGENCY

SC to hear PIL on controlling air pollution today

NEW DELHI



The Supreme Court is set to resume hearing on Monday the public interest litigation (PIL) concerning alarming air pollution levels in the national capital and the adjoining areas. The hearing assumes significance as stubble burning and stagnant weather conditions continue to push Delhi-NCR's air quality into the severe category.

As per the cause list uploaded on the Apex Court's website, a Bench of Chief Justice of India (CJI) B.R. Gavai and Justices K. Vinod Chandran and N.V. Anjaria will take up the matter for further hearing on November 17.

In the previous hearing on November 12, the CJI Gavai-led Bench had expressed concern over the deteriorating air quality despite enforcement of the Graded Response Action Plan (GRAP), and had directed the governments of Punjab and Haryana to file detailed affidavits outlining the steps taken to curb stubble burning.

The Top Court took note of submissions which highlighted that AQI has crossed 450 at several locations in Delhi-NCR.

Senior advocate Gopal Sankaranarayanan had pointed out that even routine construction activities, including drilling work outside the Supreme Court's own premises, were continuing despite hazardous conditions.

At least for a few days, such activities should stop, Sankaranarayanan told the Apex Court.

Senior advocate Aparajita Singh, the amicus curiae assisting the Supreme Court, had also flagged discrepancies in official pollution data and warned that the situation had become very dangerous.

The CJI Gavai-led Bench, which has been monitoring the issue closely, had earlier called for a report from the Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM) on its monitoring and enforcement mechanisms and had even asked the Centre to consider strict penalties, including arrests, to deter farmers from burning crop residue.

Recently, Apex Court judge Justice P. S. Narasimha urged advocates to avoid physical appearances in Supreme Court proceedings and instead opt for virtual hearings, warning that Delhi's toxic air could cause permanent damage.

ED seizes cash, 'incriminating documents' from Phagwara exporter

NEW DELHI

The Directorate of Enforcement (ED) has launched a major action against a Phagwara-based engineering exporter for alleged violations of the Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA), 1999, the central agency said on Sunday. The searches, carried out on November 14 by the agency's Jalandhar Zonal Office, targeted four locations linked to M/s Opal Engineering Corporation (OEC), a firm engaged in the export of engineering goods.

According to the ED, the action was initiated after investigators detected serious discrepancies in how the company received its export proceeds.

OEC, which exported goods to countries including Syria, Iran, Turkey and Colombia, allegedly failed to realise export payments in accordance with FEMA guidelines and Reserve Bank of India mater circulars.

ED investigation revealed that Opal Engineering Corporation exported goods to countries, viz. Syria, Iran, Turkey, Colombia, etc. However, the export proceeds were not realised as per guidelines prescribed under FEMA, 1999 and RBI Mater Circulars, the ED said in its press note.

The agency's probe has revealed that instead of receiving payments from its actual buyers abroad, the firm reportedly took funds from unrelated third parties based in various countries.

No tri-partite agreements or supporting documentation validating such adjustments were produced by the firm, the ED noted.

The proceeds were adjusted against payments received from unrelated parties, from different countries and by taking payments into personal accounts. There were no tripartite agreements or any other documentary proof for adjustment entries from unrelated parties, the ED said.

Investigators also found that OEC allegedly relied on communication sent to a fake Customs email address to portray the transactions as genuine.

The ED claims that evidence collected during the searches suggests that several export-related financial settlements were conducted in cash.

Severe weather sparks alerts

Johannesburg

South Africa remains on high alert as a strong cut-off low-pressure system brings heavy rain, severe thunderstorms and widespread flooding risks, the South African Weather Service (SAWS) reported on Sunday. Rainfall of 100–150 mm, powerful winds and intense storms are expected through early Monday. SAWS issued an orange level 9 warning for Gauteng and western Mpumalanga, cautioning that disruptive rainfall could flood roads, homes and low-lying areas, creating life-threatening conditions. Limpopo and parts of Mpumalanga are under an orange level 6 alert for severe storms and gusty winds.

Pak's detention of Afghan migrants hits record high in 2025

Islamabad

Pakistan has recorded its highest number of Afghan migrant arrests in 2025, according to a new UNHCR report. The agency said 100,971 Afghans were detained between January and mid-November, a sharp increase from about 9,000 arrests in 2024 and 26,000 in 2023. Most arrests occurred in Balochistan's Chagai and Quetta districts and Punjab's Attock district. UNHCR noted that 76% of detainees were either undocumented or Afghan Citizen Card holders, while 24% possessed valid Proof of Registration cards. The surge follows two government directives allowing authorities to remove Afghan migrants from Islamabad and Rawalpindi and permitting police to arrest PoR-card holders. Aid agencies warn that reduced funding and rising detentions.

Britain to make refugee status temporary under asylum overhaul

Britain has announced its most sweeping asylum overhaul yet, making refugee status temporary and extending settlement waits to 20 years

LONDON

Britain has announced its most far-reaching reform of asylum policy in decades, introducing measures that will make refugee status temporary and extend the path to permanent settlement from five years to 20.

The Labour government, under pressure from the rising popularity of the anti-immigration Reform UK party, aims to curb irregular migration, particularly small-boat crossings from France.

Inspired by Denmark's stringent model, the Home Office plans to make refugee protection subject to review every two and a half years. Status may be revoked if a person's home country is deemed safe. The government also intends to withdraw housing and financial support from asylum seekers who are able to work but do not, or who commit offences, prioritising assistance for those contributing economically and socially.

Home Secretary Shabana Mahmood said she would unveil additional details soon, including proposed changes to how Article 8 of the European Convention on Human Rights, which relates to the right to family life, is interpreted in immigration cases. She argued the provision is frequently used to block removals of those who have no legal right to remain.

Charities and rights groups have sharply criticised the reforms, calling them harmful, divisive, and likely to fuel hostility and violence against migrants.

They argue that temporary status will trap refugees in prolonged uncertainty. Nonetheless, the government says it will expand "safe and legal" routes for those fleeing danger.

The shift comes as immigration has surpassed the economy as voters' top concern. More than 109,000 people sought asylum in Britain in the year to March 2025, the highest in over two decades. Ministers say the overhaul will align the UK with practices in several European nations, though critics contend it risks creating a harsher and less humane system.

Ukraine struck a new deal with Greece to secure winter gas supplies as Russian attacks intensify pressure on its energy system

Ukraine agrees on gas imports from Greece, says Zelenskyy

KYIV

Ukraine has reached an agreement with Greece to import natural gas this winter, President Volodymyr Zelenskiy announced on Sunday, saying the deal will help the country manage energy shortages caused by intensified Russian strikes. In a statement posted on Telegram, Zelenskiy said the new arrangement would provide Ukraine with an additional supply route to reinforce its energy security during the cold months.

According to the president, Ukraine has already secured financing commitments for gas purchases and plans to cover nearly 2 billion euros (about $2.3 billion) in import costs. These funds, he said, will compensate for substantial losses in domestic gas production triggered by Russian attacks targeting energy infrastructure. The announcement comes as Zelenskiy prepares to travel to Greece, followed by visits to France and Spain. As the war moves into its fourth year, Russia has increased assaults on Ukraine's energy network, hitting power generation sites, electricity transmission lines, and gas production facilities. These repeated strikes have significantly weakened Ukraine's ability to meet national consumption needs, especially during winter. Zelenskiy noted that Kyiv has arranged financing for the gas imports through European institutions, including banks backed by European Commission guarantees, along with support from Ukrainian financial institutions. He also said cooperation with U.S. partners is ongoing to ensure that the full amount needed for imports is secured. Expanding energy partnerships remains central to Ukraine's strategy this winter. Zelenskiy highlighted ongoing collaboration with Polish counterparts, where Ukraine is working alongside Azerbaijan to diversify energy routes. Kyiv hopes these efforts will lead to new long-term supply contracts, further strengthening the nation's resilience against disruptions caused by the war.

Ukraine set to restart prisoner exchange talks with Russia

KYIV

Ukraine has signalled its readiness to resume prisoner exchange efforts with Russia after renewed consultations mediated by Turkey and the United Arab Emirates.

Rustem Umerov, secretary of Ukraine's National Security and Defence Council, said the discussions resulted in both sides agreeing to reactivate the Istanbul arrangements, which cover the release of around 1,200 Ukrainian captives.

Umerov noted that technical consultations will begin soon to finalise procedural and organisational steps, with Kyiv aiming to secure the return of its citizens by the winter holidays.

Earlier this year, Ukraine and Russia held three negotiation rounds in Turkey—during May, June, and July—where they reached agreements on exchanging detainees and the remains of fallen soldiers.

In August, both nations carried out another swap involving 146 prisoners, while Ukraine also returned eight residents from Russia's Kursk region. That area was briefly captured by Ukrainian forces in 2024 before Russia regained control in early 2025. The Russian soldiers involved in the exchange are currently in Belarus receiving medical and psychological care before their transfer to Russia.

Mediation by the UAE has played a key role in facilitating recent swaps.

The July 23 peace talks in Istanbul saw both sides agree to exchange at least 1,200 prisoners each, building on earlier agreements that prioritised the exchange of injured or seriously ill detainees, younger soldiers, and the bodies of the deceased.

Indian Naval Chief visits USS Daniel Inouye

WASHINGTON

Indian Naval Chief Admiral Dinesh K. Tripathi visited the Arleigh Burke–class guided-missile destroyer USS Daniel Inouye in the United States, where he was briefed on the vessel's advanced upgrades, multi-mission capabilities, and sophisticated maritime surveillance systems. He also toured Joint Base Pearl Harbor–Hickam, receiving updates on the operational readiness and ongoing initiatives of the US Pacific Fleet and units stationed at the joint facility.

According to an official statement, Admiral Tripathi's visit underscores the growing emphasis on interoperability and operational coordination between the Indian and US navies. The Indian Navy, in a post on X, highlighted that the tour reinforced both nations' shared commitment to maintaining peace, stability, and cooperation across the Indo-Pacific region. Admiral Tripathi is in the US on an official visit aimed at deepening the long-standing maritime partnership—an important pillar of the broader India-US Defence Partnership.

On Saturday, he held a series of high-level meetings with senior US military leaders, including Admiral Samuel J. Paparo, Commander of the US Indo-Pacific Command; Admiral Stephen T. Koehler, Commander of the US Pacific Fleet; and Lieutenant General James F. Glynn, Commander of US Marine Forces Pacific. The discussions reviewed major areas of defence cooperation, stressing enhanced maritime security.

120 injured as Gen Z-styled protests spread to Mexico

Thousands across Mexico staged Gen Z-led protests after the mayor of Uruapan was murdered, sparking clashes, injuries and renewed anger over rising violence.

MEXICO CITY

Protests inspired by "Generation Z" spread across Mexico as thousands of people demonstrated against worsening violence, following the high-profile killing of an anti-crime mayor earlier this month. The unrest, which spanned several cities, underscored growing frustration among young Mexicans over crime, corruption, and impunity. At least 120 people - 100 of them police officers - have been injured in clashes during anti-government protests in Mexico City, police said. Thousands of demonstrators marched in the Mexican capital on Saturday to protest against violent crime and President Claudia Sheinbaum's government.

In Mexico City, tensions escalated when a small contingent of hooded protesters dismantled metal barriers surrounding the National Palace, where President Claudia Sheinbaum resides. Reuters witnesses reported clashes between demonstrators and riot police, who responded with tear gas. According to Mexico City Public Safety Secretary Pablo Vazquez, around 100 police officers were injured during the confrontation, 40 of whom required hospital treatment. He also reported 20 civilian injuries, along with 20 arrests and another 20 individuals detained for administrative violations.

Protest marches were held nationwide, including in Michoacan, where anger has surged following the Nov. 1 assassination of Uruapan Mayor Carlos Manzo. The mayor was shot dead during a public Day of the Dead celebration, intensifying public outrage over insecurity. In the capital, some demonstrators directed their frustrations at President Sheinbaum's ruling Morena party, chanting "Out, Morena" and calling for stronger action against criminal violence. Others shouted, "Carlos did not die, the government killed him," accusing authorities of failing to protect citizens.

A collective calling itself "Generation Z Mexico," which organized the nationwide rallies, described itself in a widely shared manifesto as a non-partisan movement representing young people disillusioned with systemic violence and corruption. The group aligns itself with global Gen Z-led protest movements seeking social and political reform.

Pak struggles with deepening climate and devpt crises: Report

ISLAMABAD

Pakistan continues to confront deep-rooted socioeconomic and environmental challenges, according to a new report, which highlights the country's low Human Development Index score of 0.544 and its 168th global ranking. Pakistan also stands 15th in the Climate Risk Index 2026, reflecting its extreme vulnerability to climate impacts that successive governments have struggled to manage.

These risks are intensified by heavier rainfall in key catchment areas, accelerating silt buildup in major dams and reducing water storage capacity, ultimately heightening flood threats. Rising temperatures are creating heat and water stress, especially in arid regions, harming agricultural productivity. Air pollution from vehicles, industry, and farming has led to chronic smog in major cities, disrupting aviation, reducing visibility, and causing widespread respiratory illness.

The Diplomat report notes declining forest cover, severe saline intrusion in the Indus Delta, and damage to mangroves, fisheries, and coastal farmlands. Sea-level rise and frequent cyclones are endangering coastal communities, while water disputes, health crises, and climate-induced migration deepen national instability. The Indus Basin remains under severe pressure, with NASA identifying it in 2015 as the world's second-most overstressed aquifer.

Extreme weather events continue to inflict major economic losses. At recent COP summits, Pakistan has repeatedly called for fair climate financing and adaptation support, especially after the devastating 2022 floods that affected 33 million people. However, the absence of top federal leaders at COP30 signals shifting priorities and tempered expectations.

Australia welcomes Trump's removal of beef tariffs

SYDNEY

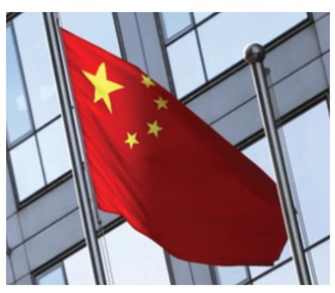
Australia on Sunday offered a measured welcome to U.S. President Donald Trump's decision to lift tariffs on beef, while reiterating its push for the complete removal of all U.S. tariffs on Australian exports. Trump scrapped duties on more than 200 food items, including beef, on Friday as Americans grew increasingly concerned about rising grocery bills. Australia became the largest supplier of red meat to the United States in 2024, providing competitively priced, lean beef that the U.S. market lacks. Foreign Minister Penny Wong said on ABC television that the removal of beef tariffs was positive news for Australian producers. However, Prime Minister Anthony Albanese stressed that Canberra would continue to call for fully reciprocal tariffs—meaning no tariffs at all between the two countries. Trump refers to some of his tariffs as "reciprocal," linking them to the size of America's trade deficit with each nation.

SENKAKU TENSIONS ESCALATE

China coast guard patrol near Senkaku escalates tensions

BEIJING

A formation of China Coast Guard vessels sailed through waters surrounding the Japan-administered Senkaku Islands on Sunday as part of what Beijing described as a "rights enforcement patrol." The move comes amid escalating tensions between China and Japan following recent comments by Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi regarding Taiwan's security. Relations between the two countries deteriorated after Takaichi told parliament on November 7 that a potential Chinese attack on Taiwan could prompt a military response from Japan. Her remarks drew a sharp backlash from Beijing, which has demanded that she withdraw or clarify her statement. China considers Taiwan part of its territory and has not ruled out using force to bring the island under its control, while Taiwan firmly rejects China's sovereignty claims.



In its statement, the China Coast Guard asserted that vessel 1307 and its formation conducted a lawful patrol inside the territorial waters of what China calls the Diaoyu Islands. Clashes between Chinese and Japanese vessels in this area are frequent, as both countries claim sovereignty over the islands.

Japan has faced increasing diplomatic pressure since Takaichi's comments.

China's Consul General in Osaka issued a provocative remark that triggered a formal protest from Tokyo.

Beijing then summoned Japan's ambassador for the first time in over two years, and China's defence ministry warned that any Japanese involvement in a Taiwan conflict would be futile.

Meanwhile, China advised its citizens against travelling to Japan, leading several Chinese airlines to offer free ticket changes or refunds.

Taiwan's defence ministry also reported heightened military activity, detecting dozens of Chinese aircraft and naval ships operating near the island as part of what it described as ongoing pressure tactics.

India and Russia advance talks on India–EAEU free trade agreement

India and Russia intensified discussions in Moscow on the proposed India–EAEU Free Trade Agreement to boost economic partnership

MOSCOW

Commerce Secretary Rajesh Agrawal held high-level discussions in Moscow with key Russian and Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU) leaders to advance the proposed India–EAEU Free Trade Agreement (FTA), the Commerce Ministry announced on Sunday. The meetings form part of ongoing efforts to deepen bilateral trade and expand India's market access across Eurasian economies.

Agrawal met Andrey Slepnev, Minister in charge of Trade at the Eurasian Economic Commission, and Mikhail Yurin, Deputy Minister of Industry and Trade of the Russian Federation. He also addressed a business networking plenary attended by representatives from Indian and Russian industries, reiterating India's commitment to strengthening a balanced and resilient trade partnership.

The discussions built on the outcomes of the India–Russia Working Group on Trade and Economic Cooperation, focusing on supply chain resilience, regulatory predictability, and diversification of trade. These efforts align with the leaders' shared vision to achieve $100 billion in bilateral trade by 2030 while creating new opportunities for Indian exports through industrial and technological collaboration.

During the meeting with Minister Slepnev, both sides reviewed the next steps for the India–EAEU FTA in goods. The Terms of Reference signed on August 20, 2025, provide an 18-month roadmap to broaden market access for Indian MSMEs, farmers, and fishermen. As the process progresses, negotiations will also examine services and investment tracks.

In discussions with Deputy Minister Yurin, the Commerce Secretary explored avenues to expand trade diversification and cooperation in critical minerals. Key sectors identified for enhanced engagement include pharmaceuticals, telecom equipment, machinery, automobiles, chemicals, and leather.

Both sides also agreed to establish quarterly regulator-to-regulator engagements, aimed at easing market entry barriers and improving trade facilitation. The visit marks a crucial step in India's strategy to deepen economic integration with the Eurasian region while supporting exporters through new and emerging trade corridors.

S. Korea prez Lee reaffirms commitment to corporate freedom

SEOUL

South Korean President Lee Jae Myung on Sunday reaffirmed his government's commitment to minimizing barriers for corporate activity, during a high-level meeting with leaders of the nation's top conglomerates. The discussion comes two days after Seoul and Washington announced a joint fact sheet outlining new bilateral trade and security agreements, including South Korea's pledge to invest USD 350 billion in the U.S. in return for a tariff reduction from 25 percent to 15 percent.

President Lee Jae Myung meets major conglomerate leaders, pledging support following landmark U.S. trade and investment agreement

The government's key role is to ensure companies can operate freely and creatively across global markets, President Lee told the participants, according to the presidential office. He emphasized that while securing tariff concessions was a very difficult process, the outcome reflected a successful strategic negotiation amid shifting global economic conditions.

Attendees included Samsung Electronics Chairman Lee Jae-yong, SK Group Chairman Chey Tae-won, Hyundai Motor Group Executive Chair Euisun Chung, LG Group Chairman Koo Kwang-mo, and top executives from HD Hyundai and Hanwha. President Lee urged them to adapt swiftly to the new trade framework and seize emerging opportunities.

What is more important is the future, he said, noting that companies play a frontline role in sustaining livelihoods and driving economic growth. He pledged government support, including deregulation and rapid resolution of corporate challenges.

Addressing concerns that massive U.S. investments could affect domestic priorities, Lee called on companies to maintain strong commitments at home. In response, industry leaders announced plans to boost hiring and expand local investments.

Samsung's Lee revealed plans to hire 60,000 workers domestically over the next five years and expand R&D and facility spending. SK Group's Chey announced a projected 600 trillion won (USD 412.2 billion) investment in its Yongin semiconductor complex. Hyundai Motor Group plans to invest 125 trillion won by 2030 and hire 10,000 employees next year, up from 7,200 this year. Hanwha also confirmed a 7 trillion won investment in its U.S. shipyard, expected to open new avenues for Korean shipbuilding suppliers.

The meeting underscored the administration's dual focus: expanding global trade influence while safeguarding domestic economic strength.

Indian govt on devpt path to empower citizens: Jim Rogers

NEW DELHI

The Narendra Modi-led central government understands that prosperity is good, success is good and they want people to be successful as earlier governments kept talking about but never meant it, veteran American investor and financial commentator Jim Rogers has said. Rogers said he has always been a fan of India as a country, but never the government that was in power before 2014. However, the concrete development happening under the current government made him appreciate the Indian government for the first time.

Well, I will tell you, I have been a fan of India as a country all my life, but never of the government, the veteran investor said. But it seems to me that now, for the first time in my investment career, the government in India seems to understand that prosperity is good, success is good, and they want people to be successful. They always said it, but they never meant it earlier, he added.

Now, this government understands and means it, and it's very exciting for the future of India, for the first time in my investment life, he said further.

Speaking on the potential India-US trade deal, Rogers said that he is excited about the nation making any deal because now the government have understood that prosperity is good. I am happy if India is making deals with many countries, be it the US or any other nation. The country is going to be highly successful in future, he noted. Roger also condemned the Delhi car blast, saying that the People behind the incident, which took place near the Red Fort Metro Station, will not be successful as India is developing fast and is going to be a very exciting nation in the future.

President Lee Jae Myung promises full inquiry and strict action after seven workers die in Ulsan thermal plant collapse

S. Korean prez vows accountability after Ulsan plant collapse

SEOUL

South Korean President Lee Jae Myung on Sunday pledged a thorough investigation into possible safety failures following the tragic collapse of a 63-meter tower at a thermal power plant construction site in Ulsan, which claimed seven lives. The last of the trapped workers was recovered on Friday, marking a devastating end to the rescue operation that began after the November 6 accident.

In a deeply emotional message posted on Facebook, and cited that President Lee expressed profound regret, stating, As the person ultimately in charge of public safety, I am genuinely and deeply sorry. Despite the people's wishes, all seven trapped workers returned to their families as bodies. My heart is deeply torn. He described the incident as one that should not have happened, emphasizing the need to prevent such workplace tragedies.

Lee vowed to hold those responsible to account, regardless of rank or position. He called for a swift and comprehensive probe to determine the exact cause of the structural failure and whether safety protocols were overlooked. The president also directed ministries to reassess safety conditions at industrial sites nationwide, especially with the onset of winter, when construction risks can increase.

We need to put an end to such a tragedy, where workplaces become a site of death, he wrote, highlighting his administration's commitment to improving labor safety standards.

In a separate post on X, Lee underscored the importance of accountability in governance, stating that rewarding merit and punishing negligence is key to maintaining institutional integrity. His comments align with his administration's recent efforts to investigate public officials involved in last year's failed martial law plot, while simultaneously introducing reforms to strengthen active public administration and restore confidence in the civil service.

The Ulsan tragedy has reignited public debate over workplace safety and regulatory oversight, placing renewed pressure on authorities to enforce stricter monitoring and preventive measures at industrial sites across South Korea.

'India seen as global digital powerhouse'

NEW DELHI

India's Digital Public Infrastructure (DPI) has played a transformational role in enabling universal access to services, bridging urban–rural gaps and strengthening the country's position as a global digital powerhouse, a senior government official said on Sunday.

Addressing an event organised by the Indian Institute of Corporate Affairs (IICA), Special DG, BISAG-N, Ministry of Electronics and IT, Vinay Thakur, placed special focus on the scale, strength, and evolution of India's Digital Public Infrastructure (DPI) – considered one of the most advanced in the world.

He highlighted how initiatives such as Aadhaar, Unified Payments Interface (UPI), DigiLocker, BharatNet, Co-WIN, UMANG, MeghRaj Cloud and GIS-based platforms of BISAG-N have collectively transformed governance, public service delivery and citizen empowerment.

Thakur, a national expert in digital governance and cybersecurity, emphasised that these achievements are a direct reflection of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visionary Digital India movement, which aims to build a digitally empowered society and knowledge economy. Thakur emphasised how the Prime Minister's leadership has enabled technology to become a tool for social inclusion, transparency and economic acceleration.

Thakur also stressed the critical need for cybersecurity frameworks to secure the nation's growing digital ecosystem. He highlighted the rising cyber threats, importance of the DPDP Act, AI-enabled cyberattacks, urgent need for post-quantum cryptography (PQC) and the significance of indigenous solutions for digital sovereignty.

India's space programme soars with new milestones

NEW DELHI

India's space ambitions continue to scale new heights, marked most recently by the successful launch of a 4,400-kg communication satellite -- one of the heaviest the country has ever placed in orbit, a report said on Sunday. With decades of domestic innovation since the launch of Aryabhata in 1975, India entered the space age, and this accomplishment further solidifies its place among the world's leading spacefaring nations.

Over the years, the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) has built a diverse fleet of satellites and demonstrated strong launch capabilities through vehicles such as the PSLV, GSLV, and LVM3, a report in timesofoman.com said.

According to the report, the upcoming Small Satellite Launch Vehicle (SSLV) is set to strengthen India's presence in the global small-satellite market.

Additionally, ISRO has already launched 354 foreign satellites from 34 countries into orbit and holds the world record for launching 104 satellites in a single mission in 2017.

Following Chandrayaan-3's historic landing close to the Moon's south pole in 2023 -- a feat no other country has accomplished -- India's standing in the world of space exploration skyrocketed.

The mission, which cost only $75 million -- much less than some Hollywood space movies -- was praised by leaders and organisations around the world, including NASA, European Space Agency, and the Australian Space Agency.

ISRO's low-cost, high-impact approach has been consistently evident.

The Mars Orbiter Mission (Mangalyaan), launched at $74 million, made India the first Asian nation to reach Martian orbit and the first worldwide to succeed on its maiden attempt. The mission, which was supposed to last six months, produced scientific observations for eight years.

With the Aditya-L1 mission, which positioned a space observatory in a halo orbit around Lagrange Point 1, India also achieved a significant advancement in solar science.

HYUNDAI AI INVESTMENT

Hyundai announces ₩125 trillion investment in AI

SEOUL

Hyundai Motor Group on Sunday unveiled an unprecedented investment plan worth 125.2 trillion won (USD 86 billion) to be spent in South Korea over the next five years. The announcement marks the largest investment in the company's history and demonstrates Hyundai's long-term strategy to secure advanced technological leadership while reinforcing its domestic manufacturing capabilities.

The move follows the recent Seoul–Washington joint fact sheet that reduced U.S. tariffs on South Korean cars and auto parts from 25 percent to 15 percent, unlocking significant trade benefits for Korean automakers. The investment plan was announced shortly after Hyundai Motor Group Executive Chair Euisun Chung joined other major business leaders in a meeting with President Lee Jae Myung to discuss post-agreement measures.

The new investment target, scheduled for 2026–2030, represents a more than 40 percent increase compared to the 89.1 trillion won Hyundai invested over the previous five years. According to the company, the funds will be used to accelerate breakthroughs in core future-business areas and secure what it calls fundamental growth drivers.

Out of the total investment, 50.5 trillion won is earmarked for future-focused sectors such as artificial intelligence, robotics, and software-defined vehicles (SDVs). A further 38.5 trillion won will support research and development initiatives, while 36.2 trillion won is designated for upgrading and expanding production facilities.

Hyundai also announced plans to retroactively cover U.S. tariffs imposed this year on key parts suppliers for Hyundai and Kia plants in the United States — a gesture aimed at reinforcing supply chain stability and supporting partner companies affected by trade pressures.

Industry analysts estimate that due to the new tariff reduction, Hyundai Motor Group could save approximately 4 trillion won in additional costs, creating more room for strategic reinvestments. The aggressive funding underscores Hyundai's ambition to remain at the forefront of global automotive innovation in an era increasingly defined by AI-driven mobility and robotics integration.

A WEAPON OF CHOICE

IED: 5 deadly parts and a castrophic outcome

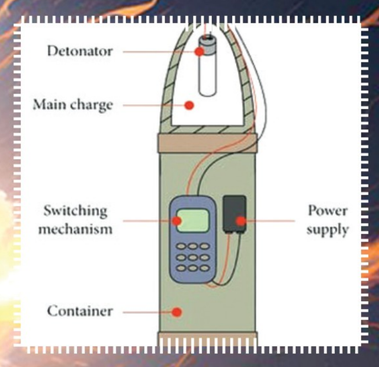
Easy to make and use, but can inflict maximum damage; low risk for attacker, except in suicide blasts; these combinations make IEDs a weapon of choice for terror groups worldwide

Misuse of commercial explosives, detonators

Commercial explosives and detonators are legally used for mining, road work, and construction, but only with a proper license. The Petroleum and Explosives Safety Organization (PESO), under the Ministry of Commerce, keeps a close watch on the production, supply, storage, and final use of these explosives. Over the years, PESO has done an excellent job, but because it has limited staff and reach, some theft and misuse still happen at the end-user level, especially in insurgency-hit areas.

Crucial need of National Counter-IED Policy

These challenges show why India needs a full National Counter-IED Policy that covers both big-picture strategy and ground-level action, making sure all agencies work together with clear roles and responsibilities. And finally, full credit must go to the brave doctor-cop of Srinagar, who smartly identified the Jaish posters, carried out a deep investigation, and led an almost perfect operation that successfully busted this new type of terror module. His work reminds us that vigilance and intelligence are our best weapons against terror. But tragically, on Friday night at Nowgam police station, nine people including policemen and forensic experts were killed when seized explosives accidentally detonated during examination, reminding us that improper storage and handling of confiscated explosives can be equally deadly.



Girish Linganna
Defence and Space Analyst

The recent Red Fort blast has once again brought the grim reality of Improvised Explosive Devices (IEDs) into our living rooms.

What's IED?

An IED is basically a homemade bomb that terrorists pack into a small box or bag, and it can injure, kill, and terrify innocent people. It shows how dangerous a misguided human mind can become when it decides to cause harm.

Why do terrorists love IEDs

But why do terrorists love using IEDs so much? The answer is surprisingly simple. First, these attacks are low-risk for the attacker because they can plant the device and simply walk away, except in suicide blasts. Second, IEDs are shockingly easy to make using materials that anyone can buy from regular shops. This combination makes them the weapon of choice for terror groups across the world.

The 5 'deadly' parts of IEDs

A basic IED has just five main parts that work together like a deadly puzzle. There is a container to hold everything, a battery to provide power, a detonator that triggers the blast, a switch to start it all, and of course, the explosive material itself. When someone turns on the switch by any method, it starts the circuit and finally causes the explosion. Terrorists often make these devices even more dangerous by adding ball bearings, nails, metal pieces, or harmful chemicals to increase the damage when it explodes.

Here is something that might surprise you. Most parts of an IED, except the detonator, can be made using common items available in regular shops. Most terrorists around the world prefer using factory-made detonators because they are reliable and work exactly as expected. These are professionally produced in licensed factories, tested and stable with proper quality control. But Ibrahim al-Asiri, Al-Qaeda's main bomb-maker, was known for making homemade detonators on his own. Even then, these homemade detonators are unsafe and unstable, and can be very risky to handle for many reasons.

Segregation of explosives

When investigators arrive at a blast site, they become detectives looking for clues. M A Ganapathy, who was the Director General of the National Security Guard from 2021 to 2024, has shared his expert views on this subject in the Indian Express, and his insights help us understand how investigators work. The type of explosive used gives important clues. It could be military-grade like TNT or RDX, commercial like dynamite, or homemade like ANFO made from simple chemicals. Each type helps identify the possible terror group behind the blast because terror groups usually stick to the same method of making IEDs. They have practice and skill in building that particular type, and they rarely change their way of working.

Unique bomb signature of terrorists

The switch mechanism also tells a story. It can be command-operated where the terrorist triggers it, timer-operated, or victim-operated like suitcase bombs or landmines. The way an IED is carried or placed, whether in a suicide vehicle, a normal vehicle, or on a person, helps investigators identify the unique bomb signature of the terrorist group involved. The National Bomb Data Centre under the NSG keeps all bomb blast records in India and gives expert advice on the type and design of each device.

Scap can turn into a deadly bomb!

There is some good news though. The numbers show a clear decline in IED blasts in both conflict areas and in the interior parts of the country. But we cannot become careless. The 2019 Pulwama suicide attack on the CRPF convoy shows how deadly these devices can be. That IED had about 200 kg of explosives. Around 20 kg was RDX brought in from Pakistan, and the remaining 180 kg was made from Superpower-90, a commercial explosive illegally taken from a mining area, along with ammonium powder and fertiliser that were easily bought locally from regular shops. This shows how easily available materials can be turned into a deadly mix.

The drone-carriers

Another worrying trend in Jammu and Kashmir and Punjab is Pakistan sending ready-made sticky bombs into India using drones. These magnetic IEDs carry small payloads filled with military-grade explosives. Thankfully, such drone drops have reduced a lot in recent years. In Naxal areas too, IED blasts have reduced sharply.

Role of border surveillance

So where do terrorists get these explosives from? Military-grade explosives are mostly sent by Pakistani handlers across the border using drones or human couriers. Even though our border security is much better now, as Ganapathy points out, our soldiers must stop every attempt to smuggle explosives. But the masterminds need to get lucky only once to send a big batch across. So it becomes a constant cat-and-mouse game where we must keep improving our surveillance and stay alert all the time.

We're breathing plastic! A toxic secret...

India, already battling some of the world's most severe air pollution, faces a worrying new dimension to its air quality crisis: the presence of inhalable microplastics. The phrase "breathing plastic" has become a stark descriptor for a threat that is often invisible but potentially carries profound health risks.

Dr Vijay Garg
Retired Principal & Educationist

Ubiquitous microplastics

A study by scientists from the Indian Institute of Tropical Meteorology found thousands of tiny plastic particles in air samples from Delhi, even during summer and monsoon seasons. These microplastics are a significant, year-round pollutant.

Sources of microplastics

These particles originate from various everyday sources, including clothing fibers, single-use plastics, and the wear-down of car tires.

Health mpacts

- Inhalation: Microplastics can enter the human body through inhalation, with particles small enough to reach deep into the lungs.
- "Trojan Horse" effect: Airborne microplastics can act as a vector, carrying harmful chemicals and pathogens into the body.
- Potential risks: Studies suggest potential health risks like bronchitis, lung inflammation, and cancer. They have also been found in placentas and breast milk.
- Slow, silent danger: Medical experts warn of the slow, silent danger these man-made particles pose, as they can act slowly within the body.

Unmonitored and unmanaged

Existing guidelines for waste management in India do not adequately address the challenges posed by airborne microplastics, leaving them largely unmonitored and unmanaged.

India's pollution landscape

India is one of the most polluted countries, with a high prevalence of plastic waste. The burning of plastics also contributes to air pollution, releasing toxic dioxins and increasing ground-level ozone conducted by institutions like the Indian Institute of Science Education and Research (IISER) in Calcutta, have sounded the alarm on these microscopic plastic fragments—less than 10 micrometres wide—that are small enough to penetrate deep into human lungs.

Key findings on airborne microplastics in India

- Significant Concentration: Researchers analyzing air samples from major metropolitan areas like Kolkata, Delhi, Chennai, and Mumbai have documented alarming levels. Average concentrations of inhalable microplastics were found to be highest in Kolkata (around 14 micrograms per cubic metre (\mu\ text{g/m}^3)) and Delhi (around 13 \mu\text{g/m}^3).
- Daily Inhalation: The studies suggest a high rate of exposure. A person spending eight hours in a busy market in these cities could inhale hundreds of microplastic particles daily. For example, estimates point to 370 particles daily in Kolkata and 300 in Delhi.
- Seasonal Variation: Studies, particularly in Delhi, have noted that the estimated average daily exposure to microplastics can nearly double during the summer months compared to winter.
- Sources of the Plastic: The most abundant component of these airborne particles is often polyester fibres, primarily shed from synthetic clothing and textiles.

Other key contributors include

- Polyethylene (from single-use packaging).
- Styrene-butadiene rubber (from vehicle tyres and footwear wear).
- The "Trojan Horse" Danger: One of the most critical concerns is that these tiny plastic particles do not travel alone. Their rough, hydrophobic (water-repelling) surfaces make them ideal carriers, or "Trojan horses," for a cocktail of harmful substances:
- Toxic Chemicals: Heavy metals like lead, arsenic, and chromium have been found adhered to the microplastics.
- Pathogens: Bacterial and fungal species have also been documented on the surface of these airborne plastic fragments, raising the risk of transporting disease-causing microbes directly into the respiratory system.

Health and Regulatory Implications

While research is ongoing, the inhalation of microplastics is linked to a range of potential health issues, including:

- Respiratory Problems: Inflammation, asthma, bronchitis, and pneumonia.
- Systemic Risk: The smallest particles can potentially enter the bloodstream, posing risks for cardiovascular diseases and even cancer over chronic exposure.

Call to add microplastics in pollutants

This escalating threat has prompted calls for regulatory action. India's National Green Tribunal (NGT) has directed the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) to consider officially including microplastics in the list of pollutants regulated under the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS), recognizing the urgent need to monitor and mitigate this overlooked air contaminant. The "breathing plastic" phenomenon highlights that India's air pollution challenge is multifaceted, stemming not only from traditional sources like vehicular emissions and industrial activity but also from the ubiquitous use and poor disposal of plastic products in daily life.

Rajamouli faces huge IMAX test with VARANASI

Director SS Rajamouli has finally revealed the title of his much-awaited film with Superstar Mahesh Babu. The movie, named Varanasi, has already wowed audiences with its first glimpse, which highlights massive visuals, ambitious ideas, and rich world-building. But behind all the excitement lies what may be the toughest challenge of Rajamouli's career.

Varanasi is being made fully for IMAX, one of the most demanding formats in global cinema.

Fans are thrilled because the film will be presented in the large 1.43:1 IMAX screens, known for delivering an unmatched immersive experience. However, this choice also brings intense pressure, as IMAX requires flawless clarity, perfect lighting, sharp VFX, and extremely precise framing. Even small mistakes look bigger on these screens.

The challenge becomes even tougher because Varanasi is only the second Indian film designed completely for IMAX. The first is Nitish Tiwari's Ramayana, starring Ranbir Kapoor, Sai Pallavi, and Yash. That film is set for a Diwali 2026 release and is already listed on IMAX's global slate. Since Ramayana arrives first, it will set the technical bar for Indian IMAX filmmaking. If it impresses, Rajamouli must match or surpass it.

Rajamouli is known for mixing strong emotions with grand spectacle, and Varanasi demands artistic beauty along with technological mastery.

Every department—from camera work to VFX—must operate at peak performance. The early glimpse has sparked worldwide discussions, and excitement is rising quickly. Planned for a summer 2027 release, likely March 17, Varanasi is expected to push Indian cinema to new global heights.

Beloved Simpsons writer Dan McGrath passes away

Beloved comedy writer Dan McGrath, known for shaping some of television's most memorable animated moments, has died at the age of 61.

McGrath passed away on November 14 at a Brooklyn hospital after suffering a stroke.

His sister, Gail McGrath Garabadian, shared the heartbreaking news online, calling him a "one-of-a-kind" brother whose loss leaves the family devastated.

Born in Brooklyn in 1964, McGrath studied at Regis High School and later Harvard University, where he helped lead The Harvard Lampoon and directed theater productions.

His sharp wit earned him an Emmy nomination for his work on "Saturday Night Live" in 1992, during which he frequently wrote with stars Chris Farley and Adam Sandler.

McGrath's most celebrated achievement came with the "Homer's Phobia" episode of "The Simpsons," which earned him an Emmy in 1997.

The episode addressed themes of acceptance and misunderstanding through its humorous yet heartfelt story.

He also contributed to other fan-favorite episodes, including "Boy-Scoutz 'n the Hood," "The Devil and Homer Simpson," and "Time and Punishment."

Jeremy Renner denies any deal with Yi Zhou

Jeremy Renner's legal team has denied that the actor reached any settlement with filmmaker Yi Zhou, contradicting her claim of a "respectful resolution."

Zhou had earlier told TMZ that she and Renner had resolved their differences amicably and thanked his attorney, Marty Singer, for facilitating the talks. She said the resolution would allow both to continue their projects, including Chronicles of Disney and Stardust Future.

However, Singer clarified that no agreement exists. "There was no deal reached with Yi Zhou to resolve my client Jeremy Renner's substantial multi-million dollar claims against her," he told TMZ. Singer also stated that Zhou had "fabricated a story" about using Renner in an animated movie when he had only agreed to participate in a documentary. Zhou responded on Instagram, saying she understood that Renner's side was okay with the discussions but claimed she would not retract her earlier statements.

"I am willing to offer peace for all of us and forgiveness and move on. We can't be forced to retract what we don't wish to retract as they are the truth I experienced," she wrote.

The dispute follows Zhou's November 7 allegations that Renner sent her unwanted explicit images in June 2025 and later threatened to involve U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). Zhou claimed she had previously dated Renner and said she felt frightened by his actions.

As the situation unfolds, both parties remain firm in their versions of events, and fans are closely watching for further updates on this high-profile controversy.

Lakshmi Manchu opens up about her painful memory

Actor Lakshmi Manchu has spoken openly about a difficult experience from her teenage years. In an interview with Hauterrfly, she recalled being touched inappropriately for the first time when she was just 15 and studying in Class 10.

Lakshmi, daughter of veteran actor Mohan Babu, shared that she had a protected childhood and usually travelled to school with her driver, bodyguard, and mother. However, during one trip to collect hall tickets, students were asked to travel by public transport. Excited for the outing, she did not expect what followed.

On the way, strangers misbehaved with her. "The violation I faced made me feel dirty and confused," she recalled. "I was only 15. When I told my friends, they said it had happened to them too. That's when I realized I wasn't alone."

Reflecting on the incident, Lakshmi said such experiences are sadly common for women using public transport in India. During the #MeToo movement, she said she broke down because every issue mentioned by women's rights groups had happened to her as well.

Lakshmi also said that being from a well-known family sometimes makes speaking out harder, as public attention often feels burdensome.

The actor was last seen in the 2024 film Adiparvam and the JioHotstar series Yakshini. She also appeared as a contestant on The Traitors India earlier this year.

Historic Upset: SA Hand India First Home Loss Since 2010

Harmer's 8-wicket masterclass sinks India on treacherous pitch as hosts collapse

KOLKATA

South Africa stunned India by 30 runs in a dramatic third-day finish at the Eden Gardens, handing the hosts their first home defeat to the Proteas since 2010. Chasing a modest 124 on a crumbling surface, India folded for just 93, conceding a 0-1 deficit in the two-Test series. Simon Harmer, the veteran off-spinner with more than 1,000 first-class wickets, produced a match-defining performance, finishing with figures of 4/21 in the second innings and eight for 51 overall.

India's chase began under immense pressure as the pitch continued to play tricks. With Shubman Gill unavailable to bat, the effective scoreline of 38/4 deepened the sense of unease. Earlier in the morning, India were firmly in control with South Africa wobbling at 93/7. But the visitors dug out crucial runs to push their lead into a competitive zone, ensuring every run mattered on an increasingly unpredictable surface.

Harmer's spell to Rishabh Pant represented the tension of the hour. After sending down nine consecutive dot balls to the left-hander, the off-spinner slowed his pace and tempted Pant into a flick. The edge ballooned back to Harmer, triggering India's slide. The collapse revived memories of earlier chases gone wrong—121 all out against New Zealand, 170 against England—further adding to the afternoon's anxiety.

South Africa's early blows with the new ball set the tone, with Marco Jansen removing KL Rahul and Yashasvi Jaiswal in successive overs. Though Washington Sundar and Axar Patel showed brief resistance, the target proved too far on a pitch where no batter ever looked settled.

India now travel to Guwahati under pressure, needing a win to avoid Gautam Gambhir's second home series loss in under a year.

IPL 2026 retention: List of RCB players released and retained

BENGALURU

Defending champions Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) finalised their retention list, releasing seven players while holding on to a strong core ahead of the 2026 Indian Premier League (IPL) mega auction. The franchise, fresh off its maiden title win, opted for continuity as head coach Andy Flower emphasised the importance of preserving a settled group that delivered consistent, high-quality cricket last season.

Among those released are Swastik Chikara, Mayank Agarwal, Liam Livingstone, Manoj Bhandage, Lungi Ngidi, Blessing Muzarabani and Mohit Rathee. The decisions reflect RCB's strategy to free up purse space while allowing room to strengthen in targeted areas during the upcoming auction. Despite parting ways with experienced names like Agarwal and Livingstone, the franchise expressed confidence that the outgoing players had contributed positively to the team environment.

RCB's retained list underlines its commitment to stability. Rajat Patidar, who will continue as captain, leads a strong contingent that includes stalwarts Virat Kohli and Devdutt Padikkal. The batting unit retains further firepower through Phil Salt, Jitesh Sharma and Tim David. All-round options such as Krunal Pandya, Swapnil Singh, Romario Shepherd and Jacob Bethell add balance across formats.

RCB confirm retained core and release seven players ahead of 2026 auction

The franchise has also held on to its bowling strength with Josh Hazlewood, Yash Dayal, Bhuvneshwar Kumar, Nuwan Thushara, Rasikh Salam, Abhinandan Singh and Suyash Sharma forming a diverse attack equipped for varied conditions. This blend of experience and youthful enterprise remains central to RCB's philosophy.

Flower noted that while releasing players is always difficult, the management is pleased with the retained core and will look to plug gaps through smart auction purchases. With a solid base in place, RCB enter the 2026 season aiming to build on their championship momentum and push for back-to-back titles.

Slovenia Beat India to Reach Billie Jean King Cup Qualifiers

BENGALURU

India's campaign to secure a place in next year's Billie Jean King Cup Qualifiers ended in disappointment, as higher-ranked Slovenia clinched the Group G play-off 2–1 at the SM Krishna Tennis Stadium.

The tie began with Shrivalli Bhamidipatty pushing 2021 French Open semifinalist Tamara Zidansek to three sets, but the Slovenian's consistency proved decisive in a 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 victory. Shrivalli recovered impressively after a shaky start, taking the second set with aggressive serving and deeper returns. But Zidansek regained control in the decider, using heavy topspin to push the Indian off balance and giving Slovenia an early 1–0 lead.

That left India's No. 1 Sahaja Yamalapalli facing the must-win pressure against Kaja Juvan. Backed by a loud home crowd, Sahaja began confidently, matching the world No. 98 from the baseline. At 3-4, however, Juvan carved out the first opening and converted a break point despite boos from the stands. Sahaja broke back for 4-4, but a lapse in her serve handed Juvan the set 6-4. The second set slipped away quickly as Juvan tightened her control with deep, flat strokes, breaking twice for a commanding 6-2 win to seal the tie for Slovenia.

India found consolation in the doubles rubber, where Ankita Raina and Prarthana Thombare staged an impressive fightback against Dalila Jakupovic and Nika Radisic. After dropping the first set 1-6, the Indians lifted their intensity to take the second 6-3 and closed out the super tiebreak 10/7. For the hosts, the loss underscored the challenge of competing against top European teams on a surface that favoured Slovenia's topspin-heavy style.

Spain virtually seal WC qualification in Georgia

TBILISI

Spain moved to the brink of securing direct qualification for the 2026 FIFA World Cup with a dominant 4-0 victory over Georgia, extending their perfect run in Group E to five wins from five. Although not mathematically through, their substantial goal-difference advantage means only a highly improbable scenario — a Turkey win by seven goals or more in their final group clash — could deny them automatic passage.

Despite missing several key players, including Lamine Yamal, Rodri Hernandez, Dani Carvajal and Nico Williams, La Roja were in complete control in Tbilisi. Mikel Oyarzabal opened the scoring from the spot after an early handball, marking his 20th goal for Spain and the 100th of Luis de la Fuente's tenure. Martin Zubimendi and Ferran Torres added two well-crafted goals before halftime, with Oyarzabal heading in his second after the break to seal a commanding win.

Spain have now scored 19 goals in the group without conceding, underlining their resurgence after their Euro 2024 triumph. Torres praised the collective effort, noting that while qualification is not sealed yet, confidence within the squad remains high.

De la Fuente, who recently told his players they were on course to become "legendary," watched his side dominate possession, strike the woodwork through Alex Baena, and continually stretch a Georgia team that struggled to match their intensity. Goalkeeper Giorgi Mamardashvili prevented further damage, but Georgia's hopes of reaching a first-ever World Cup finals ended with the defeat.

Although Pau Cubarsi came close to scoring an own goal late on, Spain preserved their perfect defensive record. Zubimendi emphasised that despite the emphatic scoreline, there were still improvements to be made — a sentiment reflective of Spain's hunger to finish the job in style when they face Turkey next.

MAKHACHEV MAKES HISTORY

Makhachev wins 170-pound title, ties UFC record with 16th straight victory

NEW YORK

Islam Makhachev cemented his legacy as one of the UFC's most dominant champions after defeating Jack Della Maddalena via unanimous decision at UFC 322 to claim the 170-pound title and tie Anderson Silva's all-time record of 16 consecutive victories. In a controlled, grappling-heavy performance at Madison Square Garden, Makhachev neutralized Della Maddalena's striking threat and swept the scorecards 50-45, becoming one of the few fighters in UFC history to win championships in two weight divisions. Now 28-1, Makhachev relinquished his lightweight title earlier this year in pursuit of two-division glory — a dream he fulfilled with calculated precision. His win places him alongside legends like Georges St-Pierre, Daniel Cormier, Randy Couture, Conor McGregor and Jon Jones, all of whom have captured UFC gold in multiple weight classes. "All my life I wanted two belts," Makhachev said as he hoisted the welterweight title.

Della Maddalena, who entered the bout on an 18-fight tear and in his first title defense, struggled to find answers against Makhachev's relentless pressure. The Australian exited the cage without a post-fight interview after suffering his first loss as champion.

The co-main event saw Valentina Shevchenko retain her 125-pound title with a unanimous decision win over Zhang Weili in a bout that failed to ignite despite featuring two of the division's most accomplished fighters. Shevchenko notched her 11th title fight victory and became the first woman in UFC history to record 60 takedowns

Palestinian Team Draws 50k Fans for Symbolic Friendly in Spain

BILBAO

A friendly football match in Bilbao drew roughly 50,000 spectators as a selection of Palestinian players met a Basque Country team at San Mamés Stadium, home of Athletic Bilbao. Held amid worldwide demonstrations over Israel's military actions in Gaza, the event blended football with a strong show of solidarity.

All available tickets were taken, and the stands filled with Palestinian and Basque flags while thousands marched through the city before kickoff, chanting in support of Palestine.

Spain has seen sustained protests since Israel's response to the October 2023 Hamas attack, with Bilbao often serving as a hub for activism, including notable demonstrations during the 2023 Vuelta. Saturday's match featured professionals from Athletic Bilbao, Real Sociedad, and other Basque clubs, though Spain's national-team players were absent due to World Cup qualifiers. For the Palestinian side, the game opened a short tour of Spain aimed at raising awareness of Gaza's humanitarian crisis. Their next stop is Barcelona, where they will face a Catalonia selection. Despite its friendly status, the match carried powerful symbolic meaning.

Aronian, gracious as ever, congratulated the rising Indian star days after naming him his favourite. With this victory, Arjun becomes one of only two top-10 seeds in the last eight and now faces China's Wei Yi. Meanwhile, Pentala Harikrishna settled for another draw and heads to tiebreaks today.

Shubman Ruled Out of Remainder of First Test with Neck Injury

India captain Shubman Gill has been ruled out of the rest of the first Test against South Africa after sustaining a neck injury on Day 2. The BCCI confirmed that Gill remains under hospital observation and will take no further part in the match. Gill retired hurt on 4 after appearing to strain his neck while playing a sweep shot off Simon Harmer. He was later stretchered into an ambulance with his neck immobilised. The team management said he will continue to be monitored by the BCCI medical staff. With Gill unavailable, vice-captain Rishabh Pant will lead India for the remainder of the Test. Assistant coach Morne Morkel suggested the issue may have stemmed from a "bad night's sleep," rather than workload.
